

Antonio Baldini, MD

Full professor of Molecular Biology, Dept. of Molecular Medicine and Medical Biotechnologies, University Federico II, Naples, Italy.

Previous positions: Director of the Institute of Genetics and Biophysics, Italian National Research Council (2008-2013); Full Professor (2003-2006), Associate Professor (1999-2003), and Assistant Professor (1992-1998) in the Depts. of Pediatrics and Genetics, Baylor College of Medicine, Houston, TX, USA.

Education: Medical Doctor degree, University 'La Sapienza', Rome (1983). Fellowship and board in Pediatrics. University 'La Sapienza', Rome (1987).

Research interests: Biology of cardiomyocyte progenitors; Tbx1 functions in cardiovascular and pharyngeal development; Genetic and drug-based rescue of the mutant phenotype in mouse models of DiGeorge/22q11.2 deletion syndrome.

Scientific publications: <http://scholar.google.it/citations?user=uTdiavQAAAAJ>.