

Andrea Shugar is a board certified genetic counsellor practicing at the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto. She received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Human Biology from the University of Toronto and her Master of Science Degree in Genetic Counselling & Biological Sciences from the University of Cincinnati. In addition to her role as coordinator of the SickKids Multidisciplinary 22q11DS Clinic, Andrea teaches and supervises graduate-level genetic counselling students, provides genetic counselling to paediatric patients and their families, and conducts clinical research at the SickKids Research Institute.