

Maria R Mascarenhas is Professor of Pediatrics at the Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania. She is also Section Chief, Nutrition in the Division of Gastroenterology, Hepatology and Nutrition, and the Director, Nutrition Support Service at The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia (CHOP). She did her pediatric internship, residency and fellowship at Downstate Medical Center, Brooklyn, NY, Texas Children's Hospital, Houston, TX and the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia respectively. She has held a faculty appointment at Robert Wood Johnson University Hospital in addition to her current institution. Her clinical and research interests include 22q11.2 deletion syndrome, nutrition support, Cystic Fibrosis and Integrative Medicine.